Evacuation of Communist Wounded From Laos to China

The Communists are evacuating seriously wounded North Vietnamese Army personnel and Pathet Lao to China for medical treatment, according to a North Vietnamese Army doctor.

DIA 25X1

The source claims that amputees and those with head wounds that require operations are evacuated because military hospitals in the province lack the equipment for adequate care. The doctor estimates that no more than 15 per cent of those wounded have been evacuated to the medical centers at Meng La and Kunming. Standing instructions called for holding to a minimum the number sent to China, but the decision-making authority rested with the senior medical adviser, not the military commander.
